Land Uses Hassle Council

Yorba Linda City Council Monday night once again faced two old problems—one general, one specific—and took action which may eventually solve both.

The general problem is that posed by RA (rural-agricultural) zoning in a developing city. The specific problem was that created when an error in drawing up the city plan imposed RA zoning on a neighborhood where much—but not all—of the property had already been developed under county zoning permitting higher density than that allowed under RA zoning.

The land in question is located north of Oriente between Ohio and Palm. It is owned by Don Schug, who would like to subdivide it into 14 lots, which he can do only if the property is rezoned RE (residential).

The difference between RA and RE zoning lies in permissible densities. Under RA, City Planning Director Phil Paxton explained, only 0.7 units are permitted per acre (a unit is a house); under RE, 1.8 units are allowed.

Although both Schug's land as well as surrounding developed acreage are zoned RA, Councilman Whit Cromwell figures some 57 percent of the surrounding lots are not in conformance with RA standards.

All, however, would be in conformance with RE standards.

Owners of the developed lots are happy with the present situation. One, David Hutchinson, gathered some 90 signatures of area homeowners who favored retaining the rural atmosphere guaranteed by RA zoning.

Tract-type development also took some knocks. "This area is unique and rural," said former city councilman Rudy Castro. "If you develop in tracts, you will lose that uniqueness."

Schug defended his project, claiming that each lot would be developed individually, each house specially designed for its lot so as to minimize necessary grading.

City Engineer Roy Stephenson confirmed that so far Schug's plans called for only such grading as that required by an access road.

Cromwell defended Schug's right to develop, declaring that denial of the zone change would deny other people the freedom to live in a development like that enjoyed by the area's present residents.

"I can see an attitude developing of 'I'm here, now everybody else stay out,'" he said. "This is eroding us into a police state."

Councilman Anton M. Groot proposed that the greatest problem lay with the difference between RA and RE densities and accordingly suggested that an intermediate classification be created to permit development of property like Schug's. Otherwise, he said, he would oppose a zone change, calling it a "dangerous precedent."

Councilman Irwin Fried agreed, moving the city establish a zoning classification permitting one unit per acre. Councilman Dale T. Chaput, who joined Groot, Fried, and Mayor Henry Wedaa in voting

Planners Leave Builder Puzzled

Reluctance to allow what they consider a less than desirable setback from the street for a proposed two story commercial building resulted in at least a six week delay for the builder when the matter came before the Planning Commission last week.

A bewildered Don Schug, the applicant for a conditional use permit, professed to be "completely at a loss to know what you want."

Schug's application has been before the commission for two months and he noted, after the hearing was continued until July 28, that "we are back where we started two months ago."

The building is proposed on a site north of Yorba Linda Blvd. between Imperial Highway and Valencia.

The commission had requested several changes in Schug's proposed building which would have a mixture of office and retail uses. Schug complied with all the suggestions and directives and fully expected approval of the latest plans.

Commissioner William Kittredge got support from Commissioners Robert Clemmer and Howard Eriksen when he voiced his displeasure over the setback. All three said they wanted to wait until guidelines had been formulated for setbacks in the Civic Center overlay zone.

Commissioners Carolyn Ewing and Ann Capron were not present although the latter came into the meeting at the tail end of the discussion but did not vote on it.

When Clemmer told Schug that he could discuss the details with Planning Director Phil Paxton, Schug asked plaintively: "Will Paxton know what you want so I'll have it the way you want it when I come back?"

He was assured that the commission will decide on setbacks at workshop meetings before the July 28 meeting.

PUSD Delays Any Annexation Move

A sharp disagreement within the Board of Trustees of the Placentia Unified School District, delayed action either way Monday night on a possible annexation between PUSD and the Yorba Linda Elementary School District.

A file on the first proposal on the merger dates back to 1964.

In the current series of talks, PUSD trustees expected Monday night to approve a paper of positive statements on essential requirements for such a merger. The paper was to be forwarded both to Yorba Linda and to the Fullerton Union High School District, with which Yorba Linda is affiliated in secondary education services.

Taking the strongest stand against the merger was Board Clerk Jean Pappas who stated her beliefs that the annexation is impractical and out of the question for financial reasons.

Mrs. Pappas explained that she believed the board's position was the same as was stated in correspondence a year ago and at one point in the meeting declared: "I think that somebody has to say no. Fullerton has more or less said no based on finances."

Board vice president John Balducci led the fight Monday for the annexation's progress and urged board members to at least outline Placentia's stand on conditions it would consider for a merger.

Trustee Salvador Zavala asked: "What advantages are there to this school district? I believe in our proposal we shouldn't give in on anything. We have enough problems in this district without absorbing anymore problems. We have our growth problem. We can't take time out to try to correct some of theirs."

A communication, however, will be acted upon at the next meeting of the board, according to unanimous vote taken at the end of the discussion. Trustees decided to incorporate two papers on a PUSD position, including some of the conditions incorporated in a letter written a year ago. The position paper will be forwarded to the other two boards concerned, Yorba Linda and Fullerton.

Items in the year old letter, which may or may not be included in the final draft, encompass:

That the Fullerton High School District agree to accept PUSD base revenue as payment of tuition for students remaining at Troy High School during a transition period and that all properties owned by the Fullerton Union High School District in the Yorba Linda School District will be transferred to the Placentia Unified School District according to the provisions of the Education Code.

The letter continues: "The staff further recommended that it would be necessary for the Yorba Linda School District to agree that any future building in that district would be according to the master plan of the two school districts and that any need to improve plants and educational programs of either district would have to proceed according to a priority order determined by the health, safety and educational needs of our students."

Andrea Bopp Appointed to AF Academy

Andrea Bopp, a senior at Esperanza High School, has received an appointment to the U.S. Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs. She has been accepted into the pilots training school.

She is the first female in the district to receive an appointment to a service academy, according to her counselor, Paul Siskowic. Her nomination was made by Congressman Charles Wiggins.

During her high school career, Andrea earned a 3.9 grade point average with emphasis in math and English and is fourth highest in her graduating class.

She has been active in drama, holding leading roles in several of Esperanza's major productions; is a member of the undefeated girls' track team; and has held student leadership roles for the three years of Esperanza's history, currently serving as student activities commissioner.

The coed plans to accept the appointment to the Air Force Academy. Her career goal is to be a pilot.

Vandalism Prevention Successful

A "Vandalism Prevention Program" in the Yorba Linda School District, inaugurated in the last few months of the school year, accomplished much of its purpose.

This was the report to the Board of Trustees by John Best, Yorba Linda Jr. High principal, who coordinated the program. Although extending to the five schools in the district, much of the emphasis was at the Jr. High level.

Best said the program installed "self respect while also cutting down on internal vandalism by the students." The students were involved in planning the program.

Deputy Superintendent J. Elton Patridge noted the program also curtailed non-school hour vandalism at the schools. He added that he believed the intramural activities program during the lunch hour at the Jr. High helped in curbing the vandalism.

With the money saved because it did not have to be spent on repairs or replacement each school was allowed to use the funds to have a special project of their choosing.

The total amount allocated for vandalism costs was $1,981. Only $412 was spent leaving the schools with approximately $300 each for their special programs.

Summer School

Summer School for those Yorba Linda youngsters wishing to take advantage of it for enrichment or makeup began last Monday and will continue through July 23.

All five schools in the district will participate in the five weeks session. Mary Pagel will be the coordinator.

Lead teacher/principals will be Ken Darby at Rose Drive, June Leach at Linda Vista, Larry Mauzey at the Jr. High and Gene Wallace at Mabel Paine.

Yorba Linda City Council Tuesday night last week formally accepted the report of the Police Service Task Force. Although the report recommended providing funds in the 1976-77 city budget for establishment of a Yorba Linda police department by Jan. 1, 1977, the council unanimously approved contracting for police service with Brea for at least another year, at a cost to the city of $452,000.

The task force had forecast an annual first-year cost of $443,500 for an "in-house" police force, although the report predicted an initial three-month start-up cost of $136,000, much of which would be amortized over succeeding years.

Despite the difference in figures, however, task force member Joseph R. Caruso stressed that "we never claimed that Yorba Linda could have its own police force for less, but rather that it could have better service for the same amount."

The task force's recommendations were most strongly opposed by Councilman Dale T. Chaput, who questioned whether the city had negotiated with Brea for the best contract possible and whether such possibilities as long-term contracting and regional or service-sharing policing had been properly investigated.

"Other alternatives are available," said Chaput, "I don't believe you can get quality in a small organization."

Councilman Irwin Fried also expressed doubts about the usefulness of the report, noting that no comparison was available regarding policing needs and costs with any community similar to Yorba Linda.

He encouraged the task force to continue its work, checking to see whether some such similar community could be found in the Los Angeles, San Francisco, or San Diego areas.

Other councilmen were less reserved. "Police departments are nothing new," declared Mayor Henry W. Wedaa. "They've been around a long time. There's no need to study them to death."

"I'm ready to go right now," Councilman Whit Cromwell voiced support for a local police force, saying, "I would like to see us have one. I think we can show a saving over a period of four or five years."

Cromwell further praised the task force for its thoroughness and diligence. (The task force has met at Cromwell's home during its two years of existence.)

Councilman Anton "Doug" Groot also supported the report. "I agree with Mayor Wedaa," he said. "We can get substantially better police service for the same cost (with our own police force)."

At Groot's motion, the council voted 4-1 (Chaput opposed) to adopt a policy statement declaring the

Robber Duo Gets $, Ring

Yorba Linda's second robbery in two weeks took place last Wednesday at Yorba Linda Cleaners, 19754 Yorba Linda Blvd.

The owner, Frances Miller, 62, told police she was working at the front desk shortly before 1 p.m. when two male white teenagers, 17 to 19 years old, entered and approached her.

According to Miller, one youth announced, "This is a stick-up." The other held his hand under his shirt, as though he was carrying a weapon. They ordered her to lie on the floor.

The robbers then took a reported $45 from the store cash register and $70 cash and a $50 diamond ring from Miller's purse.

They escaped successfully.

Little Bits

Funeral services will be held today (Wednesday) at 2:30 p.m. at First United Methodist Church, Orange, for Ronnie Greg Sparks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Sparks. Ken is Recreation Director for the City of Yorba Linda and a teacher in the Yorba Linda School District. Ronnie, 24, lost his life in a June 20 auto accident on Interstate 15 near San Bernardino. He was a passenger with three other men in a car which crashed through a highway roadside barrier, tumbled into a ravine and fell 40 feet onto its roof. The other three men in the car were injured. A graduate of El Modena High and Cal State Fullerton, Sparks survived by a brother and sister in addition to his parents.

State distribution of various tax monies netted Yorba Linda $18,241 in highway users taxes, $4,098 in cigarette taxes and $18,296 in motor vehicle license fees. The payments were for the month of June.

Councilman Whit Cromwell will serve on the Community and Economic Development Committee of the Southern California Association of Governments (SCAG). This committee is concerned with such policies as housing, employment and land use.

The Traffic Committee will meet on Thursday, June 24 at 2:30 p.m. in the Multi-Purpose Room of the Yorba Linda Library. Among the items to be considered is a ban on parking in the city between 2 and 5 a.m. The committee will also elect a new citizen member.

Girl Scout Troop 1084 of Placentia-Yorba Linda will have a car wash on Saturday, June 26 at the Chevron Standard Station, Valley View and Yorba Linda Blvd. The hours will be 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Prices are $1 for the first car and 75 cents for the second. Funds will be used for a Newport camping trip.

Anne O'Neal of Yorba Linda is one of 15 nurses completing training to become certified paramedics at Anaheim Memorial Hospital. It is believed that this is the first in the nation all-woman-nurse paramedic team.

Adoption of the proposed tentative budget for the 1976-77 fiscal year is on the agenda for the Thursday 7:30 p.m. meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Yorba Linda School District. The meeting will be in the Linda Vista School. Approval of salary schedules and fringe benefits of all classes of employees will also be considered.

Placentia Linda Hospital will hold a lecture tonight (Wednesday) on Brief Family Intervention of "How to get your children to do what you want them to do." Two deputy probation officers of Orange County will be the speakers. The public is welcome to the no charge lecture at 7:30 p.m.

down the proposed change, carried the motion a step further, suggesting that staff not be restricted to the 1-to-1 ratio, but be free to determine an appropriate ratio for such a classification.

In fact, offered Chaput, staff should investigate the possibility of developing such property as a PRD (planned residential development), thereby obviating the necessity of subdividing altogether, with the only stipulation that condominiums, a specific application of the PRD, be precluded from development.

The other council members agreed, and the motion passed.

Another mixed bag of success was brought away from the meeting by residents of the vicinity of El Cajon and Prospect.

When a tract of homes was developed in the angle between the El Cajon trail and Prospect, a private horse trail was supposed to run westerly along the northern side of the tract roughly in a line with El Cajon, providing access to the trail for horse-owners living along that side of the tract.

Instead, by accident, the trail was dedicated to the city as a public trail. In consequence, horseback riders in the neighborhood came to use the trail as general access to the El Cajon trail, crossing Prospect at El Cajon.

This, it seems, is dangerous. Councilmen and residents both referred to a lack of visibility along Prospect which assertedly endangers riders emerging from the trail.

Options open to the city were to abandon the trail completely, leaving it to residents whose homes about the trail to come to an agreement about establishing a private trail; to abandon some portion of the trail, thereby closing it permanently to through traffic; or to retain possession but to try to restrict or control access to it by means of some sort of barrier.

Residents along the north side who addressed the council generally preferred to have the land restored to them. Others for the most part wished things left as they were.

In the end, the council voted to do neither.

A motion by Groot not to abandon the trail wholly passed unanimously. So did a motion by Cromwell to abandon all but the northernmost eight feet, a move intended to straighten out zig-zagging property lines along the south side of the trail.

And finally a motion by Fried to erect a barrier to horses at the Prospect end of the trail also passed—in a 3-2 vote, Wedaa and Chaput opposed.

Non-Teachers Ask 12% Hike

Employees of the Placentia Unified School District, who are not credentialed (teachers), are asking for a 12 per cent wage boost, a cost of living contingency fund "to offset possible loss of purchasing power" in addition, and a fully paid fringe benefit package.

The opening document for negotiations was presented to the PUSD board of trustees by Ray Oliver, chairman of the California Schools Employees' Association (CSEA) research committee.

CSEA locally represents 460 classified employees.

Demands by the group include: a cost of living general salary increase of 12 per cent; a cost of living contingency fund to offset possible loss of future purchasing power; an adjustment in present summer session secretarial/clerical position pay schedules and a new study base of comparable school districts for purposes of salary and job comparisons.

Other requests are: a fully paid fringe benefit package including health, life, paid prescription, physical examination and dental benefits; a partially paid fringe benefit plan for three-hour employees; added fringe benefits for retired employees including employee's spouse and a retirement option at age 55.

Continuing: released time for appropriate number of delegates to attend CSEA annual conference as allowed by CSEA state by-laws; district sponsorship of employees at job-related conferences and seminars; additional vacation credit after seven years and a paid holiday during Spring Recess.

Justification for the demands, a letter signed by Oliver states is: "recognizing the low ratio of classified employees to both student enrollment and management and supervisory personnel, it is our contention that services rendered by our relatively small group meet a high standard of professionalism which complements the standards the district as a whole strives to provide."

The classified employees are seeking, as a cost of living adjustment, "one cent per hour for each full 0.4 of a point increase in the applicable index above the base indexes. In no event will a decrease in the pay scales be provided for in the agreement."

Other economic issues in the demands include that three hour employees be offered the district fringe benefit package, with the employee paying half the cost. A fringe benefit package is to be provided for both retired employee and spouse and the retirement age will be lowered to 55 with eligibility for paid fringe benefit package for both retired employee and spouse.

In addition the employees are asking for released time for CSEA delegates (two delegates for each 150 members and one for each additional 100 or fraction thereof).

Also: that the district agree to provide released time for employees to attend conferences and seminars of job-related nature and to pay for registration and limited expenses related to such attendance.

Further: after completion of seven years of district service, additional vacation credit of one day per year will be granted for each additional year of service up to a maximum of five additional days and the district will grant one additional paid holiday to be taken on the last working day of the Spring Recess.

The contract is sought for a year. The proposal is available at all school sites, the PUSD board states and a public hearing is scheduled for a June 28 PUSD board meeting.

Trustees are also in negotiations with the district's teachers who have asked for a 14 per cent increase which would total $2.3 million in additional salaries in addition to a number of other requests.

Task Force. . .

council's intent, in view of currently quoted contract-policing costs, to establish a Yorba Linda police department at some future date.

The council also approved unanimously a motion by Councilman Fried that Chaput and City Administrator Arthur Simonian enter into discussions with Brea and/or other neighboring communities relative to contracting for police service on a multi-year basis or establishing a joint police force. The committee of two is to report back to the council within 90 days.

In the meantime, the council agreed to accept Brea's offer for policing for the coming year. "I see no alternative to accepting the present contract," said Simonian. "It would be impossible to negotiate a new contract (this late)."

A local resident, Tony Mellias, protested lack of opportunity for citizen input, noting that the task force's report had been made available to the general public only that very day (a concern echoed by Chaput).

Mayor Wedaa pointed out that anyone wishing to comment on the matter would be able to do so at up-coming "Town Hall" budget hearings, scheduled by the council for this week.

The task force was set up two years ago, as a result of interest that arose during councilmanic elections in the possibility of a city police department.

Joseph DeStefano, who ran for a seat then as an in-house department advocate, is a task-force member, as are Caruso, Ronald W. Hoppel (who, as chairman, presented the report), Anaheim Police Detective Paul E. Bowles, and former juvenile probation officer Margo Mohn.

(At one point, Chaput, noting that three members had dropped from the task force during its existence, accused the remaining body of having a pro-police bias. Caruso objected, noting that the drop-outs consisted of a police-science student, a retired police sergeant, and a retired police chief.)

The 165-page report represented the conclusions of only four of the remaining task-force members, however. Chairman Hoppel had written a minority report advocating a multi-city regional police force over an in-house department; but when he declined to present it (it was included in the task-force report), Chaput read it instead.

Speaking for the other members, Hoppel agreed to continue the task force to aid the council in the coming study sessions.

by Jim Arkison

The comic sign which reads "Plan Ahea d" was probably inspired by the sequence of events which occur in my family circle.

In May there is Mother's Day closely followed by my combined birthday and wedding anniversary. In June there is Father's Day, my daughter's birthday and my grandson's birthday. This year those three events happened on consecutive days.

In December my son's birthday is December 21, then comes Christmas, with the year winding up with my wife's and her father's birthday both on December 30.

As you can see, this makes for some confusion such as our residence experienced over the past weekend. Saturday it was the scene of the grandson's birthday party and Sunday we hosted the family Father's Day gathering combined with my daughter's birthday celebration.

I made innumerable trips to the store for a single item at a time for "something I forgot." The Saturday party absolutely ruined my usual afternoon nap. I tried to make up for it Sunday afternoon but no sooner did I start nodding off than all the relatives arrived.

Letters To The Editor

Council Defended

Dear Editor,

This refers to your issue of June 16th in which one of your correspondents "Blasts Church Ban" and, as a summation of her "rationale" (?), charges that the Council's decision on the matter at issue was a "priority choice" of - "Freedom to worship God - or Pleasure."

These opposing observations: (1) As her letter acknowledges, she did not tarry to hear the complete argumentation which constructed the 'pros and cons' of the appeal procedure, and she thereby denied herself of the Council's decision (and its basis therefore) as to the action taken.

(2) With regard to the decision (and possibly this will be as new information to the referenced correspondent), it was predicated on these principal points: (a) the geography of the subject locale was not appropriate to the organizational activities of the contemplated enterprise; (b) the ingress/egress roads (Buena Vista, Grandview, Mountain View, etc.) were totally inadequate to the extrapolated traffic loads, and (c) the contemplated activity (and its external ramifications) was substantially at variance to the envisioned environment of most of the adjacent (investor) homeowners.

An inspection of the locale, by this writer, subsequent to the meeting confirmed, in his opinion, that the Council's contentions and consider-

With them the relatives brought my brother-in-law's Dad's Day gift, a pong game for the television set. They all sat around and glowered at me because I wanted to watch the golf match. As soon as Jerry Pate sank the winning putt they appropriated the TV.

If there is such a thing as reincarnation I hope we all come back on a more staggered schedule. This one is sure tough on the nerves (and the wallet).

One thing about it is that if they ever stop printing calendars we'll always know when it is the first day of summer and the beginning of winter. My daughter arrived on June 21 and my son on December 21.

I have to apologize to the City of Placentia. It was Fullerton, not Placentia, where they had the polling place with the no parking restriction in front of it.

I have heard quite a few murmurs of displeasure over the lack of a Fourth of July program in Yorba Linda, especially since this is our Bicentennial year.

I do know that one was planned but a couple of the sponsoring organizations just could not carry out the plans and the third group could not go it alone. All concerned felt it was better to abandon the whole thing rather than to have a sub-standard event.

ations were wholly valid; - and to take an opposing view would be one which would ignore the very practical aspects of the matter. To allege, as your correspondent does, that the decision was a matter of 'for or against' religion (or in the more ridiculous language of 'show horses co-existing with Christians'), is to impugn the integrity of the City's Councilmen.

(3) There was nothing in the evidence presented at the hearing that in any way dealt with other than the merits of the issues at hand: geographic, demographic, sociological.

But the Council members need no defense of their actions from this writer, certainly not against the emotional absurdities of the cited correspondent. On the other hand, this writer (who sometimes thinks of himself as a Christian) strongly objects to the implication that Messrs. Groot, Fried and Chaput are somehow lacking in their concern for religious establishments.

There is nothing in their records, so far as this writer can discern (and he is a rather constant observer of their words and deeds), to warrant the charge leveled.

Accordingly, he thinks that they are entitled to an apology from the accuser.

Supports Church

Copy to Star

To the City Council

I wandered over to the bare land at the corner of Ohio and Buena Vista and as I did so I had to wonder as well. I wondered what would motivate the action taken there.

Of the people who were quoted as being against that proposed church site I noticed that their address prevented them from being in visual contact with the site. In fact, one of them lives over a mile away.

I wondered how there could be a traffic problem when three streets approach that site and most of the other churches in this town have maybe two approaches.

I couldn't help but wonder if maybe the adjacent residents were worried about a church being there or were they put out because that site which they have been using for recreational use for years, Scot-free, was to be used for, of all things, a place to worship.

I wondered if any of the objectors were objective enough to look at the building plans for that site and note the beautiful Spanish architectural plans that were in store and how those might stack up against the fifteen or sixteen tax burdening, school burdening, houses that might go in there instead.

That Church has owned that site for several years. Not only are personal freedoms guaranteed by the First Amendment being violated but personal property rights are being abused as well.

The building would have been very complementary to the new school there, both in design, and in joint use of facilities.

I wondered why I had voted for those three that flashed the "no" light and why I had spoken to others about voting for them. Their vote that evening was not objective and was in contrast to the planning commission. Campaign coffers may be lined from that area but votes come from all over town, just like a congregation.

I challenge the City Council to show this city a study done with traffic surveillance and demographic research that would justify that vote.

I want them to show me that there would be a significantly higher number of autos in that traffic flow than there is on a week day when cars, school buses, and horses are going to work, school and pleasure destinations.

The same must be done not only at the site but at other church sites in the community.

The Church has already paid for improvements adjacent to the school site. They own the land, they sacrificed heavily for that land, they wanted their church there and that is where it should be.

It's time people started looking into their conscience and not their wallet.

Bicen Bike Ride

A million mile bike-a-thon will soon be burning up the miles as around 100 bicyclists leave from Anaheim on July 2 in a Bicentennial effort expected to land them in Washington, D.C. August 13.

The Bicentennial Bicycle enthusiasts, ranging in age from 12 to 63, and both male and female, expect to be pedaling all the way with night stops in cities, villages and hamlets across the country.

With them in close proximity will be travelling a chuck wagon for hearty appetites (average mileage anticipated a day is 80) luggage and bicycle trailers and a chartered bus for the weary. The bus also will be used for the return trip.

There will be several people on the ride from Placentia and Yorba Linda, tour director Dana J. Morrison, reports.

The excursion is thought to be the largest of its kind ever planned and can still accommodate about 15 more riders, the group reported this week.

Anyone interested in a cross-country bicycle ride can join the group by calling Morrison at 776-2266.

There will be time for sightseeing along the way and all accommodations, food and housing is available for $375 per person. Accommodations will include such places as camp grounds, YMCA's, gymnasiums, and whatever suitable place is available.

Big Book Giveaway

More than 17,000 books will be given away by the Placentia Unified School District this week through June 25, because they are too worn for student use or have been declared obsolete.

Teachers in the district will have the first opportunity to claim the books to use as supplemental materials in their classrooms, but the public is invited to browse and take books between 9 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, June 23-25, according to Steven Tash, coordinator of instructional media.

The books are at the district's Instructional Media Center, Room 306 at McFadden Elementary School, 974 S. Melrose St., Placentia. Additional information may be obtained by calling the I.M.C. at 524-4396.

Members of the community who take the books must sign a statement that the books will not be sold or "otherwise utilized for private gain," Tash explained.

Books range in instructional level from first grade through high school and include primarily language arts and math texts.

San Andreas is one of many small communities in the "Mother Lode" country. The town, built in 1849 by Mexicans, still sports many of the original buildings and the old Victorian houses with all the gingerbread that came a little later.

As some of us took a walk through the town, we passed one old Victorian house that I could imagine what a great story could be bottom and looked up-it was in the middle of the ceiling. Strange.

The trip to the bottom of the cavern was via 10 flights of a circular stairway made from scrap metal gleaned from old World War I ships. I didn't hear any moaning. When the stairs were added they interfered with the movement of air and thus the cave no longer moaned.

At the top once more, I decided that the name was still apt, because I was moaning and groaning over how much my legs hurt from climbing all those steps. We returned to the meetings on shaky pins.

You've heard the ads for preparations that will calm your nerves. Oh, did I need that stuff. "Leadfoot" did most of the driving during our trip. I don't mean to imply that my youngest son drives fast, but we made San Andreas in 8 hours.

It's about 420 miles from here. However we stopped for brunch, 2 snack stops and 2 gas stops. Coming home was almost as eventful. Then we made stops to see the construction of the New Melones dam.

Most of the river area will be under water when the dam is finished. We also detoured into part of the Yosemite National Park. The mist from Bridal Veil Falls was refreshing, and the view of El Capitan and Half Dome magnificent. I wonder how many bottles of "calm" I should get before our summer trip to Michigan?

What looked like a spike coming down from the ceiling way over on the far side of the cavern, was really in the middle. Sure enough when we got to the

Y Cycle Program

The North Orange County YMCA is now accepting reservations for its second "Learn to Ride" motorcycle program. The response to the first session was so favorable that a greatly expanded second session is planned for boys and girls ages 11 through 14 which began June 21st at the YMCA's main facility in Fullerton. The registration fee is $40.

The five week course will include 20 hours of instruction, two days a week, on the following aspects of motorcycle riding: Basic techniques and safety; Motorcycle law; maintenance; and minor repair.

Students learn the basic skills and knowledge while riding the minibikes provided by the YMCA. The course is specifically designed for the youngster who has not had previous experience in motorcycle riding, but wishes to acquire that experience in an exciting and fully supervised summer program.

Four classes will be offered in the second session. To insure proper supervision, enrollment will be limited to eight students per class.

The $10 non-refundable deposit will be required at the time of registration with the balance due prior to the first meeting. For more information and reservations call the YMCA at 879-9622.

The class was split into three groups and each group showed their version to the rest of the school. The kindergartners voted on the best group whose film will be shown on Channel 50.

Film producer Marty Rozen volunteered his time and the film to help the students make the productions.

CONCENTRATION - Goalie Karl Reiter keeps an eye on the ball and moves up to block an attempted goal from Indio in tournament play Saturday. The STOP poloists were seeking a trip to Jr. Nationals, but fell short of their goal. The 15 and under crew had not worked together as a team long enough for optimum performance, but chalked up several hard fought victories, before going down. Reiter was honored in league all-star teams last winter when as a freshman, he tended goal for the varsity team at Valencia.
